Home Loans for Renovators.

As a homeowner, you may be interested in adding value to your property. One way you may be able to do this is through renovation. Besides choosing your new look, layout or colours, it is a good idea to weigh up the costs of a renovation and make sure you choose the right financing strategy.

There are a number of options available to you from accessing your equity and repricing or refinancing your home loan to taking out another loan.

How renovation loans work

The finance for a renovation will be different for everyone. The amount you need to borrow, your existing loan balance, your property's value and the type of renovation you're undertaking are the most important factors to consider. The first step is usually to get a valuation on your property.

Allenda Finance can organise a valuation for you, which is usually free, and take a look at your current situation and goals to find the right finance strategy for you. With access to over 60 lenders, we make sure you receive a competitive deal that suits your needs.
